AUCTION OF THE MONTH

1995 Ferrari 512M

Debuted at the 1994 Paris Auto Show as the pinnacle of the Testarossa series as well as Ferrari's last flat-12 sports cars, the F512 M received updated styling, a more refined interior, and upgrades to the engine, brakes, and suspension. Only 501 cars were produced in total, and this 1995 example is one of just 75 designated for North America.

DRIVEN SPOTLIGHT

Hurley Haywood: The Legendary Champion

Hurley Haywood is recognized as America's most successful endurance racing driver. He won the 24 Hours of Le Mans in 1977 (Porsche 936), 1983 (Porsche 956), 1994 (Dauer 962 Le Mans) and is tied as the most successful driver at the 24 Hours of Daytona with 5 wins (1973, 1975, 1977, 1979, and 1991) and the 12 Hours of Sebring in 1973 and 1981. He also drove in the 1980 Indianapolis 500 finishing 18th. The Chicago native represented the International Motor Sports Association four times in the International Race of Champions (1986, 1989, 1992, 1995). In 1970, during the Vietnam War, Haywood was drafted into the Army. He served as a specialist 4 with the 164th Aviation Group near Saigon. After completing his tour of duty, he won his first IMSA GT title in 1971.

The last time Haywood raced professionally was a decade ago, but he's still very much a part of the racing community as an executive of The Brumos Collection, Grand Marshal for the Rolex 24 at Daytona and Porsche factory driver & brand ambassador.

In February 2018, Haywood publicly came out as gay in his autobiography Hurley: From The Beginning. Haywood realized how powerful his voice could be as an advocate for other gay men, especially in motorsports.

'Listen, it's not what you are, it's who you are. That's what people remember,' - Hurley Haywood

The man has led a storied career and he's still finding ways to help, encourage, and support others, including his fans and the brands he loves.

DeLorean AlphaV

Over 40 years after the release of the DeLorean DMC-12, made famous by its cameo in the film Back to The Future as Doc Brown's time machine, the DeLorean Motor Company is back with a newly styled EV featuring a 2+2 seating configuration. The Alpha5 is claimed to provide at least 300 miles of range from a 100 kWh capacity battery, with a top speed of 155 MPH. The bodywork has been penned by Italdesign, founded by famed designer Giorgetto Giugiaro, who styled the original DeLorean DMC-12. Details include LED taillights that span the entire rear of the vehicle, an active rear spoiler, and of course, the iconic gullwing doors. Specific details are yet to be released, but DeLorean claims the Alpha5 can accelerate from 0 to 60 MPH in just 2.9 seconds, and reach 88 MPH in 4.35. The first in-person showing of the Alpha5 will occur at the 2022 Concours D'Elegance at Pebble Beach, and the DeLorean Motor Company hopes the first models will be delivered in 2024.
